RESONANCE TECHNOLOGY

In 1930 microbiologist and cancer researcher, Royal Rife, conducted research suggesting that microorganisms can be neutralized by electro-magnetic resonant waves. With the advent of electronics and computerized electronic devices this phenomenon became reality since 1985.

THE BIO-PHOTONIC ENERGISER - BPE PRO 6000

The Bio-Photonic Energiser is a Multiple Wave Oscillator which is the latest in a continuing evolution of MWO devices. The BPE PRO 6000 device is constructed using the technologies originally developed by Nicola Tesla and Georges Lakhovsky. Devices of this type are commonly called Multiple Wave Oscillators (MWO's), a term derived from the high frequency wave oscillations that the units produce.

The Bio-Photonic Energiser (BPE PRO 6000) is based on the research of Georges Lakhovsky and Nicola Tesla. Lakhovsky showed how cells (of the body) manifest the electrical properties of resistance, capacitance, and inductance. These characteristics create resonance.

He observed this oscillatory nature of healthy cells and the fact that, during an invasion by microbes, the cells entered into a state of oscillatory disequilibrium or disease. Lakhovsky went on to observe that high frequency radio waves could energize malfunctioning cells due to the spiral helix or coil found in each cell (RNA-DNA) that acted as a receiving antenna for the radio waves the MWOs produced.

Once the cell was energized, waste and toxins would be expelled and nutrients would be ingested. Lakhovsky's research demonstrated how the application of an external electrical field (generated by the MWO) was able to do this.

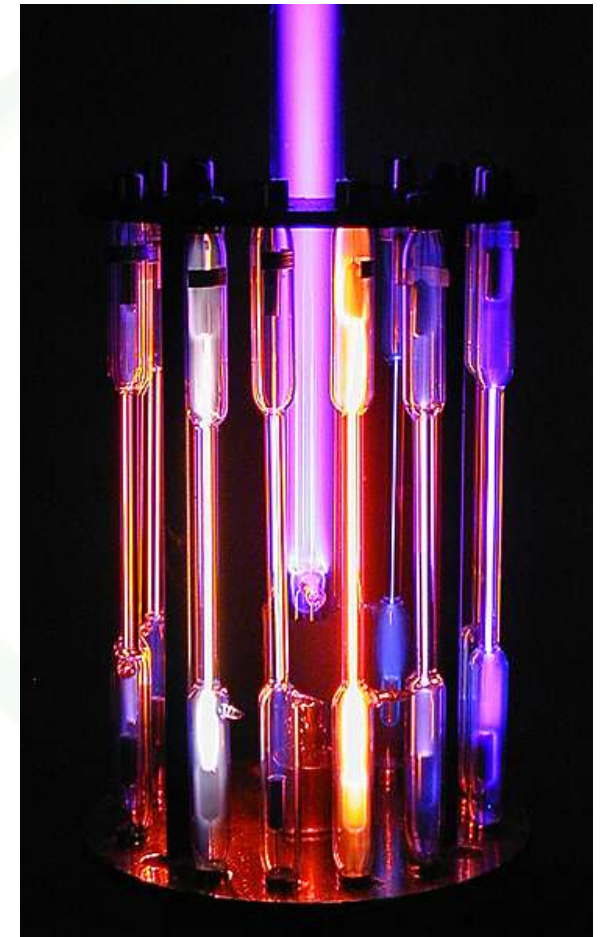

Lakhovsky began to use argon gas in copper tubes for the antennae of his Multi-Wave Oscillator. He found that certain inert gases, when charged by high frequency currents, helped stimulate cellular development by speeding up detoxification

Lakhovsky, a Russian electrical engineer, who emigrated to France in the 1920s, believed that cells are electrical in nature. His published work called The Secret of Life (1935) demonstrates this theory.

The BPE PRO 6000 contains a high voltage transformer and a specially designed Tesla Coil. Its high frequency electrical field is used to charge various gases in the Air Plasma Tube and Multiple Array, resulting in a radiant field that is intended to stimulate the subtle, or non-physical energetic aspects of the human configuration.

The activation of the subtle body, combined with a focused mental intent, is thought to enable the user to affect positive changes in physical, mental, emotional and spiritual conditions (some beneficial properties of the BPE PRO 6000 device may be enhanced when it is used in conjunction with meditation and yoga breathing techniques).

It is believed by many that any effects that may be experienced with this device are a result of alterations in the body's electromagnetic or "energy" field.

The unit is thought to raise the capacity for release of waste and toxicity; and enhances immune function and the healing capacity of diseased organs, as well as general illness in the body.

However, this apparatus is not to be used as a replacement for medical treatment, but should be considered an adjunct to traditional medical treatment. Information on this brochure is intended to be used only for educational purposes. The devices we sell are intended for investigational use only. This apparatus is to be considered an experimental device. No medical claims are made about the use of the Bio-Photonic Energiser.
